

THE PEACOCK
MEDITERRANEAN WINE SERIES

We host wine dinners several times a year that highlight mediterranean wine producers.

Our February featured producer —

RAVENTÓS i BLANC Spain
Conca del Riu Anoia

WINES FROM RAVENTÓS i BLANC

By the Glass

2017 Blanc de Blancs ..... 12

Sparkling wine that whets your palate for a big Mediterranean experience. Crisp, clean and mineral.

2017 Rose de Nit ..... 15

This is serious sparkling rose that pleases everyone and surprises with its creamy and rich palate. Red fruits, doughy, and delicious.

2016 de La Finca ..... 20

Some of the oldest vines from the entire Raventos estate go into this wine. This wine shows the heart of the estate and what they stand for.

ABOUT JOSEP SAMSÓ & RAVENTÓS i BLANC

Raventos has one of the longest documented winemaking traditions in the world, if not the longest. Their family's estate dates back to 1497 and they produced the first bottle-fermented sparkling wine in Spain in the late 1800's. Cava is an officially recognized appellation in Spain for sparkling wine but also holds the not-so-flattering recognition as the only non-contiguous appellation for wine production in Spain. To translate, the appellation has been expanded over recent history with many producers (including Raventos) believing that the credibility of the appellation has been watered-down. In 2012, they stopped labeling Cava on their sparkling wines and instead created Conca del Riu Anoia as an appellation and remain as the only producer that label as such.

By the Bottle

2014 Textures de Pedra Blanc de Negres ..100

Take a ride on the wild side. Made from grapes sourced from some of the highest elevations of their estate. Mineral, textured, and surprisingly juicy. Very distinct.

2007 Mas del Serral..... 300

This wine has the same qualities of a top Champagne but tastes of the area and brings the entire estate into a romantic focus. Super old vines, single site and every detail approached from the perspective of an artisan. This is one of the best sparkling wines in the world.